This description is for Armenium Cranesbill (Geranium armenum):

This tall flowering plant may require a walking cane

Geranium armenum, also commonly known as Armenian cranesbill, is a herbaceous and bushy perennial that produces lovely flowers of red, purple and black during the summer. Its clump forming growth makes it ideal for flower beds and containers, and its seasonal foliage changes from green to red providing more interest. G. armenum is a hardy plant for both partially shady and sunny areas of the garden. It will thrive in any soil apart from waterlogged conditions. Due to its relatively tall height it may need some support from canes or wire frames.
