This description is for Bellflower (Campanula punctata):

The campanula punctata gets a bit of stick... which is lucky, as it needs the support whilst growing.

Campanula punctata is a wonderful member of the bellflower family that has pink or red blooms that hang pendulously from its bright green foliage. It flowers during the whole of the summer and can cope with being planted in virtually any sunny or partially shaded location. Depending on the type you choose, it might need support whilst growing, but apart from this is simple to grow and requires little on-going care to thrive. A popular choice in cut flower arrangements, or looks superb in an informal garden location.
